glances

Looks good for figuring out what process it taking more CPU plus other stats. Only thing to determine is if it has an overhead on the system. At the very least it requires Python to run so not sure I like installing yet another programming language that would have vulnerabilities on a system.

http://askubuntu.com/questions/293426/system-monitoring-tools-for-ubuntu